PRESSURE CLEANERS

THE POWER OF PRESSURE WASHING: Cold vs. Hot Water

Cold water pressure washers work by using sheer force to blast away dirt and grime. They break the bond between the mess and the surface it's clinging to.

If the grime is tough, like stubborn grease or oil, you'll need higher pressure. However, for non-water-soluble substances, cold water might just move the mess around, requiring the use of chemical detergents.

THIS IS WHERE HOT WATER PRESSURE WASHERS SHINE.

Hot water softens the bond of grease and grime, significantly reducing the pressure, cleaning time, and amount of detergent needed.

For every 10° C increase in water temperature, the chemical reaction that breaks down grime doubles, leading to faster cleaning and drying times.
